An abstract is a brief summary of a research article, thesis, review, conference proceeding, or any in-depth analysis of a particular subject and is often used to help the reader quickly ascertain the paper's purpose. When used, an abstract always appears at the beginning of a manuscript or typescript, acting as the point-of-entry for any given academic paper or patent application.

Background Although running is a popular leisure-time physical activity, little is known about the long-term effects of running on mortality. The dose-response relations between running, as well as the change in running behaviors over time, and mortality remain uncertain. Objectives We examined the associations of running with all-cause and cardiovascular mortality risks in 55,137 adults, 18 ...

Highlights We show how clothes systematically influence wearers' psychological processes. Three experiments demonstrate that wearing a lab coat increases attention. Attention did not increase when the coat was not worn or associated with a painter. Attention only increased when the coat was a) worn and b) associated with a doctor. The influence of clothes thus depends on wearing them and their ...

Interesting work. It struck me that since the analysis showed that the fatal cases in this sample involved roughly twice as many wounds on average as the non-fatal cases, the likely additional traumatic and ballistic effects (e.g. blood loss, vital tissue damage, etc.) of those additional wounds raises a significant question concerning what effect the increased caliber had versus the ...
