The Statistical Evaluation Of Medical

A statistical model is a mathematical model that embodies a set of statistical assumptions concerning the generation of sample data (and similar data from a larger population). A statistical model represents, often in considerably idealized form, the data-generating process. A statistical model is usually specified as a mathematical relationship between one or more random variables and other ...

Most statistical software packages offer a cornucopia of output. Authors need to be judicious in selecting what should be presented. A chi-square test will typically produce the chi-square statistic, the degrees of freedom in the data, and the P value for the test. In general, chi-square statistics, t statistics, F statistics, and similar values should be omitted.
